SUNDAY FEBRUARY 8, 1901.

THAT GOLD BRICK.

There are among the readers of the JOURNAL, those who continue to feel anxious about the final action of the legislature upon the lottery amendment. They claim to be fearful something will come to blight their hopes respecting its defeat.

Mr. Weed of New York who is interested in the scheme is in Carson, but he is not there to secure the passage of the lottery amendment as matter stand before the body whose consent for the people is necessary. Mr. Weed claims to have advanced ten thousand dollars to aid the scheme at its beginning and when called on for more money, ten thousand additional was advanced by interested parties in New York. The last ten thousand advanced has been returned to Mr. Weed at his request, believing as he says that it would be money lost to attempt to secure the passage of the amendment.

The first ten thousand or any part of it, has not been returned, twenty-five hundred dollars of which has been accounted for through the purchase of newspapers in the State and for other expenses, leaving a remainder of seven thousand five hundred dollars to be accounted for.

It is evident that the gentleman from New York now in Carson has very small hope of receiving any of the money unaccounted for, or he would not be saying that he had received a gold brick to the amount of the remainder. Mr. Weed should not give an inside view to the first workings of the lottery scheme, which it appears have been applied to him, attended by success to the sum of seventy-five hundred dollars.

The gentleman from New York will receive very little sympathy from the people in Nevada over his loss. The first drawing made was against him. Being a lottery sharp, he should be willing to make a losing and say nothing about it. He was in luck to have returned to his possession the last ten thousand advanced, which will be taken by him to New York in a very few days.

Mr. Weed has made a mistake to expect a scrupulous accounting in a cheating game. The gold brick mentioned is one of many kept in stock for the public in all lottery swindles. The gentleman should have very little to say when he has received one of his bricks intended for the public in quantity.

Mr. Weed put up his money to make a market for gold bricks in Nevada, and if the one sold to him is the only brick disposed of in the market intended to be made in the State, the sale was made to the right man, which is not all there is to the sale, as we feel sure nine-tenths of the people in the State will support the view taken of the sale by the JOURNAL to the guileless man from New York.

THE QUEEN'S FUNERAL.

The paucity at the funeral of the late Queen was all that could be secured as a last tribute of affection and respect for the memory of a woman who occupied a tender place in the hearts of her people. Her life had been such in truth and example that no exaggeration could come in manifestation of regard. She had secured to herself by a humane and upright life not only the e-term of her subject, but in addition thereto the esteem and respect of a world, strange as it may seem. Yet, it is true, beyond any question, that no other sovereign who has reigned or ruled has succeeded in receiving such universal respect.

The enemies of England held the Queen in high esteem, which was often a means to modify bitter feeling against those directing the government of England. Warships were in line for ten miles along the coast taken from Cowes by the ship that carried the remains of Victoria toward the place where they will be laid at rest. Her remains will be laid near to the remains of the Prince Consort, which will unite in death all there is mortal of those who were united in life.

Prince Albert, husband of the Queen, is known to the people of England as Albert the Good, and the Queen is surely entitled from her life to be known in the future to the world as Victoria the Good. The world has received a lesson in the lives of these royal people from which it should profit through the example given by them in all that tends to elevate and to make better that divide part there is in the human family.

MAY TAKE PRECAUTIONS

Health of Reno Endangered by the Plague in California Towns.

Not exactly as a retaliatory measure but as a needful precaution, Tom Hymers is thinking seriously of quarantining the whole State of California in order to prevent the plague reaching Reno.

He contemplates stopping all trains at the State line and fumigating the passengers with essence de polecat.

Only those who possess a veterinary surgeon's certificate will be allowed to proceed on their way, odoriferous and rejoicing.

If the newspapers of the metropolis by the bay were to tell the public what they know about the deadly scourge which exists in their rotten Chin-town and which threatens at any moment to sweep over the State, Governor Gage and the California board of health would find enough guaranteeing to suit their taste on the other side of the mountains.

The great State of California would better wipe out the plague in Frisco and Bakersfield and the small-pox in the San Joaquin before messing with the affairs of the Riverside burg, which is perfectly competent to care for the single solitary case of small-pox that occurred here. Selah!

THE RESOURCES OF NEVADA

IN this department will appear from day to day articles descriptive of Nevada from the pen of Hon. R. D. Kelley, State Surveyor-General.

CLIMATE OF NEVADA.

NEVADA is essentially a land of sunshine. There are more clear days on its deserts than seem conceivable to eastern people; in fact, the sunshine causes the desert as the soil in the dryest regions of the State produces, when cultivated and irrigated, bountiful crops of all the cereals, grasses and vegetables of the temperate zone.

The atmosphere is pure. Consumption, the scourge of the Northeastern States, never originates and seldom develops in Nevada, even when the seeds of the disease are brought here, and malarial diseases, so prevalent in the great valleys bordering on the Mississippi, are scarcely heard of in Nevada.

The temperature varies according to locality. In the northern

STOCK helps at Bradley's Co., not shams, not make believes, but genuine culinary assistants of the first water. We name here only a few of the many, and would like you to see them all. Shall we have the pleasure of serving you? It would do a house-keeper's heart good to see the entire array here.

Vistors may come. The large should be well supplied, even if your guests will accept only a cup of tea and a cracker. By the way, if you want to reach the hearts of the little folks, be sure to have on hand a good quantity of very choice crackers. And other delicacies.

Many Things
Are Meant
By many dealers who claim to handle groceries. When they advertise the GOOD GROCERIES no mention is made of PRICE. When price is mentioned QUALITY IS OVERLOOKED. Again, sometimes they dwell on the virtues of a LARGE STOCK. In this case no claim is made to carrying FRESH GOODS.
